Programme outline

What is the relationship between a text and its context? How are writers affected by the circumstances in which they live? What influence do literary texts have on social, cultural, and political life? A degree in English and History at Queen Mary gives students the chance to reflect on these questions, and to consider how these disciplines relate to and inform one another. Students will be trained in the key skills needed to study both subjects at degree level, and examine the interaction between writing and society in the periods that interest them most. Queen Mary's work in both History and English is internationally renowned, and students have the opportunity to work with some of the world's leading teachers and researchers.

Aims of the programme

The programme aims to:

provide a coherent and intellectually stimulating programme with a focus on literary and historical aspects of texts in English and related languages from variety of historical periods;

Programme Title: BA (Hons) English and History

provide a coherent and intellectually stimulating programme designed to develop critical and analytical skills as well as a broad knowledge and understanding of historical methods and techniques based on the study of past societies and cultures;

use the programme's interdisciplinary approach to develop not only skills which are appropriate to the two specific disciplines, but also skills which are common to both. In this way, students will come to appreciate that the study of each discipline complements and enriches the study of the other;

develop skills of literary, historical and cultural analysis, with attention to genre and period;

encourage engagement with a wide variety of critical and theoretical modes of enquiry;

introduce students to, and encourage them to employ, a range of methodological approaches;

enable students to develop independent critical thinking and judgement and to undertake related research tasks;

develop a range of skills necessary for effective communication of ideas and arguments including an ability to gather, organise and deploy evidence, data and information; structure, coherence, clarity and fluency of both oral and written expression; intellectual integrity;

provide a basis for further study in History, English or related disciplines.

What will you be expected to achieve?

Students completing this programme of study will be able to:

QMUL Model

The QMUL Model is an innovative teaching and learning initiative that will broaden opportunities for Queen Mary undergraduates within and beyond higher education, supporting them to plan and manage their ongoing professional development. The Model is firmly grounded in the core QMUL values of respect for, and engagement with, the local area and communities, with a distinctive focus on enabling students to make a positive societal impact through leadership in their chosen field. The Model is organised around the key themes of:

- networking
- multi- and inter-disciplinarity
- international perspectives
- enterprising perspectives.

Students are required to study QMUL Model modules to the value of at least 10 credits at each year of undergraduate study. Model modules may be 5, 10 or 15 credits. Model modules are indicated within this programme specification.

In your first year of study, the Model module will be core or compulsory and will be situated within your home School or Institute. In subsequent years, students will be strongly encouraged to study at least one Model module beyond their home discipline(s), which could, for example, be in another School / Institute or area of QMUL or undertaken as a module outside of QMUL.

If Model module information is not provided on this programme specification for all subsequent years of study, this will be identified as your studies continue.

Where a Model module elective can be selected from an approved group of Model modules, no guarantee can be provided that your first choice of Model module will be available.

Encouraging the use of learning journals and portfolios
Regular review of individual student progress by advisers, and detailed guidance in relation to this

How will you be assessed?

Assessment takes a number of forms within the programme. The nature of the assessment is closely connected to the desired learning outcomes and the mode of teaching within each module. Forms of assessment include:

Unseen examinations
Critical essays (from 1,500 words to 6,000 words)
Research projects
Close-reading exercises and critical commentaries
Translation exercises
Reviewing exercises
Bibliographical exercises
Posters
Log books and journals
Portfolios of essays and related written work
Seminar presentations

How is the programme structured?

Please specify the full time and part time programme diets (if applicable). Please also outline the QMUL Model arrangements for each year of study. The description should be sufficiently detailed to fully define the structure of the diet.

Students take 120 credits in each year.

Year 1

Students take the following modules:

ESH102 Reading, Theory and Interpretation (compulsory) 30 credits (QMUL model module);

ESH125 English in Practice (compulsory) 0 credits;

Students take either:

ESH101 Shakespeare 30 credits; Or

ESH110 Literatures in Time 30 credits;

HST4602 History in Practice (compulsory) 15 credits (QMUL Model module);

And 45 credits from other HST level 4 modules.

Progression requirements to Year 2

To successfully progress from Year 1 to Year 2 students must meet the overall credit requirements for progression under the Academic Regulations which apply to them.

Year 2

Minimum 90 credits at level 5, maximum 30 credits at level 6, normally 60 credits in each semester. Minimum 45 credits/

Maximum 75 credits of ESH-prefixed modules; Minimum 45 credits/Maximum 75 credits of HST-prefixed modules.

In English, students choose modules from four Lists. Lists 1-3 correspond to the following subject areas: Medieval and early Modern; Eighteenth century, Romanticism, and Nineteenth century; Modern, Post-colonial, and Contemporary. List 4 contains options from all subject areas.

Students choose 1 x 30 credit module from List 1 or List 2, and a minimum of 15 credits from either List 3 or List 4.

List 1: a list of up to three modules in the Medieval and Early Modern Subject Area;

List 2: a list of up to three modules in the Eighteenth Century, Romantic, and Nineteenth Century Subject Area;

List 3: a list of up to three modules in the Modern, Contemporary and Postcolonial Studies Subject

List 4: this list includes all level 5 modules not already included in Lists 1 to 3 above. List 4 provision is amended and expanded as modules are proposed, amended, withdrawn and approved through the Queen Mary Quality Assurance processes.

Each list includes ESH-prefixed modules identified as QMUL Model modules.

Minimum 0 credits/ Maximum 30 credits optional modules to be chosen from all modules offered in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, subject to space available on modules and with the guidance of the student's adviser, which may include

Programme Title: BA (Hons) English and History

QMUL Model modules.

Up to 30 credits may be taken at level 6 with the adviser's agreement.

Selection must include a minimum of 15 credits of QMUL Model modules, which may include ESH- or HST-prefixed modules (up to 120 credits), BA/LLM/BSc modules in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences (maximum 30 credits).

Normally Year 2 students may not take any modules at level 4 with the exception of level 4 language modules in the School of Languages, Linguistics and Film (30 credits maximum) and level 4 BSc/LMM modules (15 credits maximum), where these fulfil the QMUL Model module requirement.

Students may not take more than 30 credits outside ESH- or HST-prefixed modules.

Progression requirements to Final year

To successfully progress to the final year students must meet the overall credit requirements for progression under the Academic Regulations which apply to them.

Final Year

Students take the equivalent of 120 credits (minimum 90 credits at level 6, maximum 30 credits at level 5), normally 60 credits in each semester, taking an equal number of credits from both English and History, to include minimum of 15 credits of QMUL Model modules. Final Year students may not take credits at level 4.

Students take either:

1. 60 credits from a Special Subject, either as a combination of a 30 credit Queen Mary School of History Special Subject and 30 credits from HST6700 History Research Dissertation, or as a 60 credit Special Subject, which includes a dissertation, offered by another college within the University of London. The Special Subject requires extensive use of primary sources. In addition 60 credits of ESH-prefixed modules (excluding ESH6000).

or

2. ESH6000 English Dissertation (30 credits) and 30 credits of ESH-prefixed modules, and 60 credits of HST-prefixed modules (excluding HST6700).

What are the entry requirements?

The entry requirements are as stated in the Queen Mary prospectus for current entry, and on the Queen Mary website <http://www.qmul.ac.uk/undergraduate/coursefinder/index.html>

How will the quality of the programme be managed and enhanced?

Each School operates a Learning and Teaching Committee, or equivalent, which advises the School Director of Taught Programmes on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at School level including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies and reviewing all proposals for module and programme approval and amendment before submission to Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in this Committee's work in a number of ways, such as through student membership, or consideration of student surveys.

All Schools operate an Annual Programme Review of their taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. The process is normally organised at a School-level basis with the Head of School, or equivalent, responsible for the completion of the school's Annual Programme Reviews. Schools/institutes are required to produce a separate Annual Programme Review for undergraduate programmes and for postgraduate taught programmes using the relevant Undergraduate or Postgraduate Annual Programme Review pro-forma. Students' views are considered in this process through analysis of the NSS and module evaluations.

How do we listen to and act on your feedback?

The Student-Staff Liaison Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between Schools and its students. The Committee consists of student representatives from each year in the School together with appropriate representation from staff within the School. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Student-Staff Liaison Committees meet regularly throughout the year.

Students are given the opportunity to provide feedback through the Module Evaluation system, and through Queen Mary and national surveys.

What academic support is available?

All students beginning study on the programme participate in a series of Welcome Week activities, which involve introductions to the programme and specific inductions in the use of the online learning environment. These events also include opportunities for social interaction, and scheduled small group and individual meetings with personal advisers.

Each student's academic progress and personal welfare is monitored by an adviser in each School with whom regular meetings are scheduled. Advisers are the designated members of staff with whom students can raise issues and problems, and from whom they can seek advice and guidance.

All teaching staff hold regular drop-in hours in which students are actively encouraged to discuss their work and their progress.

There is a dedicated student support administrator in each School who works with academic staff to assist students in need of support.

Both the student support administrator and all advisers are able to refer students, where appropriate to relevant professional service departments in Queen Mary, including Disability and Dyslexia, Welfare, and Counselling.

A dedicated post of E-Strategy Manager in each School supports students in their use of the online learning environments used on all modules.

The School of English and Drama and the School of History collaborate with the Queen Mary Thinking Writing team and Language Centre to support students in the development of their writing skills. Additional support is provided by the Royal Literary Fund Fellows.

Programme-specific rules and facts

Specific support for disabled students

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Special arrangements in examinations
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
- Mentoring support for students with mental health issues and conditions on the autistic spectrum.

Links with employers, placement opportunities and transferable skills

English and History graduates find opportunities for employment in many different careers, especially those calling for excellent communication and analytical skills. Students will have developed their research skills and understanding of the modern world, all of which are valued by employers. Graduates of the English and History degree might find employment in areas such as business, journalism and the media, education, museums and archives, government or public relations.

Graduates of the programme can expect to have developed:

communication skills, as students are challenged to express themselves in both speech and writing.

presentation skills, as students are asked to introduce seminars, make points clearly and effectively, maintain discussion, and field questions.

reading skills, using a range of approaches to tackle different kinds of texts.

analytical abilities, as students respond to and assess their underlying agendas and meanings.

writing abilities, through preparing a range of assignments (including reports, learning journals, and research essays).

research skills, locating, sifting, and interpreting a range of sources (from printed books to electronic journals).

time-management skills and the ability to work under pressure, as students organise and fulfill extensive reading commitments and written assessments.

team-working skills, as students participate with peers in seminars and group research presentations.

Students are regularly notified of placement opportunities via our link with QProjects (part of QM Careers Service).

Every year the Schools see a number of students progress to take higher degrees, both at Queen Mary and elsewhere.
