Programme outline

The Master of Laws offers students with professional entry law degrees the opportunity to develop their academic and professional expertise in diverse areas of law. Students can customize their programme of study by choosing from over 250 LLM modules across 19 specialist areas.

The programme of study provides a flexible mix of classroom-based teaching (assessed by formal examinations or coursework) for taught modules as well as an optional dissertation. The range of modules offered and the programme's flexible and ad-hoc structure design allows students to develop both breadth of study and sub-specialist or complementary expertise sought by legal employers. The design of the programme permits students to make independent choice on the modules they choose, while permitting co-concentration of specialist areas of study, according to their career needs and interests. The programme fosters the development of legal practitioners with world-class education and expertise across a range of practice areas.

It also enables work or study commitments by allowing programme completion on a part-time basis without interruption to their professional career.

Aims of the programme

The Master of Laws programme is designed for students who wish to take full advantage of the School of Law's extraordinarily wide range of course offerings and the diverse research interests of our faculty. Candidates pursuing the Master of Laws have the freedom to choose courses that match their intellectual and professional interests.

The aims of the Master of Laws are to:

- a) enable graduate lawyers and other students with foundational legal expertise or experience to develop a detailed, critical and advanced knowledge in their chosen areas of study, to prepare them for careers in their targeted fields of law;
- b) broaden and deepen students' understanding of their own legal systems by giving them the opportunity and the tools with which to explore current legal issues from an international and comparative perspective.
- c) better prepare contemporary lawyers for legal practice in an increasingly globalised world.
- d) enable students to pursue independent legal research.
- e) enhance the professional legal, analytic, writing and oral communication, team working and other skills needed to practise law across a range of specialist areas.
- f) Enhance the students' learning experience through regular interaction with lecturers, practitioners, visiting academics and fellow students

What will you be expected to achieve?

Students who successfully complete the programme will be able to:

- Explain key legal principles, emerging issues and public policy debates in the relevant areas of law.
- Apply highly developed and complex level of legal knowledge in constructing in-depth, original, and justified responses to complicated (and sometimes unpredictable) legal problems and situations arising within the relevant legal practice areas.
- Compare relevant legal frameworks for their legal, commercial, political and social implications from comparative law and international law perspective.
- Consider the relationship of the chosen legal areas with broader areas of law and policy, both for short and long term implications.
- Evaluate how the chosen areas of law can impact the rule of law using the lens of the legal, social, economic, commercial, political, ethical and cultural contexts.
- Identify how critical, ethical, and reflective approaches, grounded in the chosen areas of specialist knowledge and its governing relevant legal frameworks, support the applicable responsibilities of a legal professional in making complex professional judgments in practice;
- Engage critically with current research in the chosen areas of law and use research techniques to design and develop your own research, including identifying the issue(s) which require researching and developing information from a broad range of appropriate and relevant primary and secondary legal research sources.
- Demonstrate self-direction and autonomy through the production of independent research (writing a dissertation / research assignment).
- Communicate clearly, effectively, and comfortably using the legal and any relevant technical terminology of those chosen legal sectors and their legal frameworks.

Academic Content:

A 1	Explain and apply legal principles, current issues and debates arising out of the law and practice in the legal sectors of the chosen modules.
A 2	Evidence systemic understanding of complex legal knowledge in evaluating the practical implications of current legal and public policy issues arising within the respective specialist areas of study including from a comparative and international approach.
A 3	Explain whether and how their chosen areas of law intersects with other legal frameworks.

B 1	Evaluate a range of primary and secondary legal materials, including legislation, regulations and administrative guidance and the academic and professional literature.
B 2	Solve complicated legal problems and construct justified, in-depth and original responses applying the complex specialist legal principles and rules in a way that shows a practical awareness of current issues as expected by legal employers at the global level of professional practice.
B 3	Design, develop and write organized, well constructed and referenced legal research papers that clearly but critically analyze selected, specialist legal issues with arguments conclusions supported by relevant legal authorities and that flow logically from the analysis.
B 4	Use appropriate research techniques to find, evaluate and engage with primary and secondary legal research resources within the chosen areas of law in order to construct and support original analyses of relevant issues, within the select legal frameworks and public policies.
B 5	Use comfortably the relevant legal and technical language to effectively communicate both orally and in writing to both expert and non-expert audiences.
B 6

Attributes:
C 1	Engage critically with and apply legal knowledge across a range of legal areas in researching and resolving complex or unfamiliar legal problems.
C 2	Demonstrate critical and independent thinking, openness to different ideas, and the capacity to manage future professional skills development in the face of emerging legal trends both national and global.
C 3	Communicate effectively, persuasively and accurately both orally and in writing.
C 4	Evidence specialised and contextualised understandings of core legal principles in diverse practice areas.
C 5	Evidence the ability to work collaboratively as well as independently in developing approaches to legal problem solving.

How will you learn?

Students will learn through direct interaction with lecturers using a variety of teaching, learning and assessment strategies, including interactive and research-informed lectures, seminar sessions, tutorials and e-learning. Students will also be expected to invest a significant amount of time in independent learning, including reading materials in advance of lectures/seminars, preparing class presentations, completing assignments and preparing for examinations. Students will be provided with a variety of legal resources and receive training on how to use them.

In addition, students who choose the dissertation will need to carry out extensive research to complete the dissertation.

How will you be assessed?

Assessment is by examination, oral presentation, essays and/or coursework for taught modules and by elective dissertation.

How is the programme structured?

Please specify the structure of the programme diets for all variants of the programme (e.g. full-time, part-time - if applicable). The description should be sufficiently detailed to fully define the structure of the diet.

Master of Laws (LLM)

- Students on the LLM have to complete 180 credits.
- Part-time students are normally expected to take 90 credits each year of their programme but this may be varied by special permission.
- Students can take the elective dissertation in Law SOLM900.

An additional dissertation (SOLM901) can be taken instead of taught modules by LLM students only with special permission from the LLM Programme Coordinator.

What are the entry requirements?

The usual qualification for entry to the LLM programme is a degree in law, or a degree with a substantial law content, of at least 2.1 honours (or equivalent). Law graduates with 2.2 honours who also have other legal qualifications and/or substantial professional legal experience may also qualify.

Non-law graduates with a minimum second class honours degree, that have also obtained a Merit (or 60 per cent) in the Common Professional Examination (CPE) or Graduate Diploma in Law (GDL) recognised by the UK professional bodies, may also qualify. Non-law graduates may also be considered on the basis of exceptional professional experience (of at least five years) in a legal area or an area directly related to their programme of study.

Applicants whose first language is not English must provide evidence of your English language proficiency. The usual English Language Requirements for Postgraduate Law Taught Programmes will apply. These may be accessed at <http://www.law.qmul.ac.uk/postgraduate/courses/english-language-requirements/index.html#Postgraduatelawtaughtprogrammes>

How will the quality of the programme be managed and enhanced? How do we listen to and act on your feedback?

The Staff-Student Liaison Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between schools/institutes and its students. The committee consists of student representatives from each year in the school/institute together with appropriate representation from staff within the school/institute. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Staff-Student Liaison Committees meet regularly throughout the year.

Each school/institute operates a Learning and Teaching Committee, or equivalent, which advises the School/Institute Director of Taught Programmes on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at school level including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies and reviewing all proposals for module and programme approval and amendment before submission to Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in the committee's work in a number of ways, such as through student membership, or consideration of student surveys.

All schools/institutes operate an Annual Programme Review of their taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. APR is a continuous process of reflection and action planning which is owned by those responsible for programme delivery; the main document of reference for this process is the Taught Programmes Action Plan (TPAP) which is the summary of the school/institute's work throughout the year to monitor academic standards and to improve the student experience. Students' views are considered in this process through analysis of the PTES and module evaluations.

What academic support is available?

Students will receive a comprehensive induction. Students will be assisted with the preliminary stages of selecting a research topic, drafting a research proposal, considering their methodology and developing the skills needed to identify and use relevant materials. Lecturers on taught modules shall be available to discuss any concerns students might have with regard to the particular module or its content.

Programme-specific rules and facts

How inclusive is the programme for all students, including those with disabilities?

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Special arrangements in examinations
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
